Longtime Alderman Sullivan retires

After 25 years of service to the City of Glendale representing Ward 1, Alderman Kay Sullivan has stepped down from the Board of Alderman. Mary Catherine "Kay" Sullivan was sworn into office on May 4, 1987, and has been a fixture and innovator in city government ever since.

Besides representing Ward I, she also has served as the President of the Board of Aldermen, and can include the following achievements in the City of Glendale on her "watch":

- One of the first curbside recycling programs and sewer later repair programs in St. Louis County.
- A cooperative agreement with the cities of Kirkwood and Oakland for the construction and maintenance of an aquatic center. This cooperative agreement was the first of its kind in the state of Missouri and received the Regional Cooperation Award from the East-West Gateway Council of Governments.
- The renovation and expansion of the Glendale Police Department headquarters.
- The construction of large infrastructure projects in cooperation with federal, state, and county governments, including the Sappington Road improvement project, Berry Road sidewalk project, Monaco Park and several storm sewer projects.

- A comprehensive approach to infill development within the City of Glendale, culminating in the creation of the Architectural Review Board.

- Last but not least, Sullivan is one of the longest-serving members of the Board of Aldermen, with the distinction of having been in office during the celebrations of the City's 75th (1987) and 100th (2012) anniversaries.

Sullivan's years of service were celebrated April 26 at a reception in her honor, attended by family, friends and colleagues. While she will be deeply missed at the City, we know she is looking forward to spending more time with her husband, Mike, and her children and grandchildren.

Kirkham Avenue reconstruction update

The preliminary design of the reconstruction of Kirkham Avenue is complete, and the City soon will begin the process of contacting approximately 36 property owners along the project corridor to acquire temporary construction easements.

The temporary construction easements are needed in order to level portions (typically only a few feet) of certain front yards where they will approach the new sidewalk.

The project itself, including sidewalks, curbs and gutters, will be constructed within city-owned right of way. The City and project managers will work

MAYOR'S MESSAGE

Dear Residents:

I would like to thank Alderman Kay Sullivan for her 25 years of dedicated service on the Board of Aldermen. Kay made the decision to not seek another term and formally stepped down from the Board on May 6. Kay served longer than any other alderman in Glendale's history, and I express deep appreciation on behalf of many citizens throughout the community who have come to know and appreciate Kay over the years. I cannot imagine how many hours of service Kay must have volunteered over her tenure. She has truly put her heart into making our community an even better place to live.

We also welcome Paul Roettger back to the Board of Aldermen. Alderman Roettger stepped down from the Board in 2012 upon moving from Ward 2 to Ward 1 and was elected as the new Ward 1 Alderman in April.

The City has also experienced a number of staffing changes in recent months. The Board of Aldermen and I appointed Jaysen Christensen as city administrator on February 11 following the departure of our previous city administrator, Jeremy Hayes. The City also hired new Police Officer Darren Hicks and new Firefighter/Paramedic Greg Kozlowski both in the month of February as well.

Additionally, Sgt. Robert Catlett has been promoted to the rank of captain, and Police Officers Daniel Phillips and Christopher Sarantakis have been promoted to the rank of sergeant. In our fire department, Lt./Paramedic Curtis VanGaasbeek has been promoted to captain/paramedic, and Firefighter/Paramedic Clint Fulliam has been promoted to lieutenant/paramedic. I would like to welcome and congratulate all of these employees on behalf of the City.

Finally, I would like to remind and invite everyone to attend the 14th annual JazzFest on the evening of Friday, May 24th in the City Hall parking lot. Please come out and enjoy the music and family-friendly festivities with your friends and neighbors. This wonderful event and others would not be possible without the donations of time and resources from our residents and businesses.

It has been said, "Volunteering is the ultimate exercise in democracy. You vote in elections once a year, but when you volunteer, you vote every day about the kind of community you want to live in." We are fortunate to have so many residents and businesses who are engaged in the community and who volunteer their time and resources to make Glendale a wonderful place to live.

Thank you for your continued interest and involvement in our community, and as always, please let me know if I can be of assistance to you.

Mayor Richard Magee

Mayor, three aldermen returned to board by voters in April

Glendale voters on April 2 re-elected their mayor and two aldermen and returned a former alderman to the board, representing a different ward. All of the candidates were unopposed.

Mayor Rich Magee was elected to his fifth two-year term. He was first appointed as Ward III Alderman in February 1995 and was re-elected to that position until he was elected Mayor in 2005. Mayor Magee and his wife, Peggy, have two sons, R.J. and Collum. Magee holds a bachelor's degree from Columbia University and a law degree from Washington University School of Law. He is an attorney and a partner with the Eckenrode-Maupin law firm. He is a member of the Kirkwood Optimist Club and Kirkwood Rotary International. Mayor Magee is an active member of the Missouri Municipal League and has served as a member of the MML Board. He is also a past president and active member of the St. Louis County Municipal League.

Paul Roettger

Mike Wilcox

Mike Wilcox was elected to his third term as Ward II Alderman. Alderman Wilcox and his wife, Libby, have two children, Justin and Maya. Wilcox holds a bachelor's degree in financial management from the University of Missouri-Columbia and a master's degree in business administration from Webster University. Wilcox is a regional sales manager for MMMM. He is a past president of the Mizzou Alumni Association-St. Louis Chapter. He also is on the board of directors for Canterbury Enterprises, a not-for-profit sheltered workshop that employs people with disabilities.

Deb Voss was elected to her sixth term as Ward III Alderman. She was first appointed in November 2002 and was elected to her first full term in April 2003. Alderman Voss and her husband, Larry, have one daughter, Ellie. Voss graduated from Nerinx Hall High School in Webster Groves and attended the University of Missouri at Rolla. She is presently serving as a part-time real estate agent and full-time homemaker. Previously, she worked 10 years as a police/fire dispatcher for the City of Glendale and held other clerical support positions with the City.

RESIDENT IN THE NEWS

Glendale resident gives rescued paws a chance to be pets

“Abandoned but not forgotten”—that’s the catch phrase for Abandoned Paws Rescue, an animal rescue organization founded by Glendale resident Mark Curfman. The 19-year-old California native, who moved to Glendale six years ago with his family, noticed a need in the St. Louis County area for an additional pet rescue organization. In November 2011, Curfman founded Abandoned Paws Rescue with the help of a number of volunteers and foster families with a mutual belief.

The mission of Abandoned Paws Rescue is to save the lives of abused and unwanted dogs in the St. Louis area. The organization is made up of a group of dedicated volunteers working together for the benefit of helpless and homeless dogs. The program is funded by donations and adoption fees, and the volunteers spend endless hours of rescue work, which involves transporting, fostering and networking.

Rescued animals often make the best pets, Curfman said. “Pets from Abandoned Paws Rescue seem to understand they have a second lease on life,” he said. “In return for a little affection and attention, these remarkable animals reward their new owners with a love and loyalty unmatched anywhere.”

Adoption from Abandoned Paws Rescue includes medical attention for each rescue dog, including all vaccinations and spay/neuter. The dogs are then placed in loving foster homes until their forever home is found.

Abandoned Paws Rescue participates in “Puppies for Parole,” a rehabilitation program at the Farmington Correction Center. Volunteer inmates work with 10 to 12 dogs, teaching them obedience skills in preparation for the AKC canine good citizen program test. The dogs are then ready for adoption through APR.

Abandoned Paws Rescue also is involved with the Healing Species Midwest, an 11-week violence intervention/character and compassion education outreach. Through the assistance of rescued dogs, the organization helps children to understand and overcome abuse, neglect and grief.

ALDERMEN'S CORNER

By Aaron Nauman, Alderman Ward 2

Did you know that Glendale is not a Tree City USA? I didn't either until recently. Many of our neighboring municipalities such as Kirkwood, Des Peres and Rock Hill have invested the time and energy into having an organized approach to city tree management and are part of more than 3,400 other communities who've sought out this important designation. There are many benefits and drivers beyond the obvious community pride and positive publicity. It dovetails well with Glendale's recent Coldwell Banker Most Livable City designation (#1 in Missouri.)

The board recently took a critical first step toward achieving this status by seeking out and receiving a Tree Resource Improvement and Maintenance (TRIM) grant. The TRIM program is a competitive cost-share grant provided and administered by the Missouri Department of Conservation in cooperation with the Missouri Community Forestry Council and the U.S. Forest Service. The grant reimburses the city up to 60 percent of the cost of conducting a citywide street tree inventory.

The inventory will provide spreadsheet data, risk assessments and maps to assist the city in budgeting for and scheduling tree maintenance in the future. The tree inventory will also increase the city's eligibility for additional grant funds to offset tree maintenance program expenditures. These grants could provide up to 75 percent matching funds. As an extension of the inventory, the survey additionally provides GPS locations, species, size, conditions and primary maintenance needs for every tree in the right of way throughout the city and estimates could be as high as 2,300 trees.

The inventory is just one piece to establish a more comprehensive approach to tree care. First, we must have a Tree Board or Forestry Department. We're fortunate to have so many volunteers in Glendale who already sit on various boards and committees and I have no doubt the same level of interest would be here as well. Our Public Works department (lead by Terry Jones, Foreman) has been helping to organize the steps toward designation, and it's good to see their interest early in the process.

Second, a local tree ordinance is required to support and define an action plan for the board or department to follow. The plan dictates planting, maintaining and removing trees.

Third, we must spend $2 per capita. On the surface that might sound like an ominous figure. The city's public works budget already includes the cost of tree maintenance so in most cases this amount, if not more, is budgeted currently. Lastly,

POLICE BEAT

New officer hired

Off. Darren Hicks

The City of Glendale welcomes Officer Darren M. Hicks as the newest member of the police department. Officer Hicks, who started with the Glendale Police Department Feb. 4, is a 2004 graduate of the Eastern Missouri Police Academy.

He has more than seven years experience in the law enforcement profession, having served previously with the Ballwin and O'Fallon police departments.

Officer Hicks was assigned to the patrol division at both police agencies and excelled in traffic enforcement activity and DWI enforcement.

Catlett promoted to captain

Robert Catlett has been promoted, effective Jan. 1, to the rank of captain with the Glendale Police Department.

Capt. Catlett has served with the Glendale Police Department since Jan. 22, 1986. He was assigned as the administrative aide to the police chief on July 1, 2000 and was promoted to the rank of corporal in July 2003 and then to the rank of sergeant in January 2006.

Catlett has held many responsibilities during his tenure with the department. He has been assigned to the Patrol Division and as Commander of the Administrative Division, Information Systems Administrator, Deputy Director of Emergency Management, and Crime Prevention and Community Policing Specialist. He is a certified fire investigator, an accident reconstructionist, the Uniform Crime Report Compliance Officer, the Glendale Municipal Court bailiff, a public information officer and a Crisis Intervention Team officer.

He holds a bachelor's degree in philosophy and theology from Cardinal Glennon Seminary College. He also has a master's degree in divinity and holds a doctor of ministry degree from Vilatte Theological Seminary.

"Bob Catlett's dedication and experience made the decision to promote him to the rank of captain an easy one," said Chief Jeffrey Beaton. "He is an asset to the Glendale Police Department and the City of Glendale as a whole."

Phillips and Sarantakis promoted to sergeants

Police Officers Daniel Phillips and Christopher Sarantakis have been promoted to the rank of sergeant, effective Feb. 25.

•Sgt. Dan Phillips has been employed with the Glendale Police Department since May 2, 1986. He was initially hired as a part-time dispatcher and eventually moved to a full-time position on Aug. 29, 1988. Phillips graduated from the St. Louis County and Municipal Police Academy on Dec. 17, 1992, when he became a full-time police officer with Glendale.

Phillips has held many positions and has had many responsibilities during his tenure, including detective, field training officer, juvenile officer, member of the Greater St. Louis Major Case Squad, member of the Professional Investigators Council of Greater St. Louis and member of the City of Glendale Police and Fire Pension Board. He serves as the Communications Division supervisor. He holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Missouri.

•Sgt. Christopher Sarantakis has been employed as full-time police officer with the Glendale Police Department since April 1, 2003. A graduate of the Eastern Missouri Police Academy, he also holds a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from the University of Central Missouri.

Sarantakis also has held many positions and has had many responsibilities. He has been assigned to the Patrol Division and is a detective, the primary evidence custodian and an investigator with the Internet Crime Against Children Task Force. Sarantakis was instrumental in updating the Glendale Police Department's Standard Operating Procedures, obtaining bullet-proof vest grants, coordinating the PASS System and organizing fundraisers for both the Missouri Special Olympics and Warner's Winter Warm-Up coat drive.

"Dan Phillips and Chris Sarantakis are both very deserving of their promotions and are great assets to the Glendale Police Department," said Chief Beaton.

Carrico retires

Detective Sgt. Randy Carrico retired on Feb. 10 after more than 40 years of service with the Glendale Police Department and to the community. After serving in the U.S. Army from 1967 to 1969 during the Vietnam War, Carrico was hired as a part-time dispatcher with the Department on Nov. 25, 1972. He was hired as a full-time police officer on July 5, 1976.

During his tenure with the department, Randy Carrico served in many capacities. He was a detective, a field training officer, a Crisis Intervention Team officer, a firearms instructor, a member of the Professional Investigators Council of Greater St. Louis and a longtime member of the Greater St. Louis Major Case Squad.

Carrico received several awards and commendations throughout his career. In 1995 and again in 2009, he received the John J. McAtee Award for effectively dealing with a mentally ill individual. In 1997, he received the Kirkwood American Legion Safety Officer of the Year Award. In 2005, he received the City of Glendale Employee of the Year Award.

"Randy Carrico was a well-respected member of the Glendale Police Department and was also well respected by many other local law enforcement agencies," said Chief Beaton. "His 40 years of dedicated service to the City of Glendale should be commended."

A retirement luncheon for Carrico was held Feb. 8 wherein he was presented with several commendations for his service. "Detective Sgt. Randy Carrico's contributions to the Glendale Police Department will long be remembered and he will be missed," Beaton said.

BURNING ISSUES

The Glendale Fire Department has made the following staff changes:

Captain/Paramedic Curtis VanGaasbeek recently was promoted to the position of captain and leader of B-shift. VanGaasbeek began his career in Glendale on Oct. 5, 2006 and previously worked for the City of St. Louis Fire Department as a paramedic, before he was moved to the suppression side and assigned to a hook and ladder company. In Glendale, he serves as the fire department's medical officer, where he continues to advance the department in the area of emergency medical services. VanGaasbeek, his wife and their two children reside in the South County area.

Lieutenant/Paramedic Clint Fulliam recently was promoted to the position of lieutenant with the Glendale Fire Department. Lt. Fulliam began his career in Glendale on June 20, 2009, but began his firefighting career serving on a volunteer department. After becoming a paramedic, Fulliam began working for Abbott EMS. In Glendale, Lt. Fulliam has been assigned to lead A-shift and serve as the department's information technology and records management officer. Fulliam, his wife and their three children reside in Imperial.

Firefighter/Paramedic Greg Kozlowski joined the Glendale Fire Department on Feb. 17, 2013. Before coming to Glendale, Kozlowski worked for Christian Hospital as a paramedic and also worked for a local window company. He has been assigned to B-shift, under the direction of Capt. Curtis VanGaasbeek. Kozlowski, his wife and their two children reside in Florissant.

Glendale must promote Arbor Day. On April 1 the board passed resolution R9-13 proclaiming Friday, April 5, 2013 as Arbor Day in the city of Glendale. As you can see, we're making incremental progress!

We spend a lot of time as a board discussing capital improvements, street maintenance and assets that are more visible to residents such as police cruisers and fire department turn-out gear. All those are important to us and reflect the outstanding services provided to residents. But what about our "living" infrastructure? Being a Tree City USA also adds a level of insurance to protect our assets during severe storms and/or natural disasters and provides quick access to data required to seek FEMA reimbursement.

With the recent tornado damage north of us, Hazelwood Mayor Matthew Robinson said, "It's the worst Hazelwood has ever seen," after he surveyed that damage he could see in the dark streets left powerless by the storm, according to a report on KSDK.com. It's another dimension we must consider when planning how to best protect another type of asset most people take for granted until it's too late and not easily replaced.

I'm proud to be part of a group of like-minded individuals who care deeply for the city they live in, volunteer their time and believe that sometimes it's best to invest in resources that will outlive us. It's one part of a comprehensive plan to improve Glendale, continue to make it a place where people seek out to establish their families, and be a good steward of our environment.

with contractors and property owners to ensure that grass and vegetation on any private property are restored once construction is complete. Construction is scheduled to begin in spring 2014.

The project includes resurfacing the street, reconstructing curbs, eliminating sight distance problems, and improving drainage. Reconstruction of sidewalks and handicapped accessible curb ramps at all intersections will improve pedestrian mobility along the corridor. Relocation of utility poles and installation of decorative lighting will improve safety and make the street more attractive.

The total cost of the project is estimated at $2,447,907 with 80 percent or $1,958,326 funded by a federal grant.

Paul Roettger was elected to his first term as Ward I Alderman on April 2 and was sworn into office on May 6. Alderman Roettger previously served as Alderman in Ward II from April 2006 until his family moved out of the ward in December 2011. Roettger and his wife, Leslie, have three children, Jack, Elise and Bennett. Roettger holds a bachelor's degree in accounting from Miami University in Ohio and a master's degree in finance from St. Louis University. He is employed as a senior equity trader with Wells Fargo Advisors. Roettger also serves as a trustee on the Glendale Police and Fire Pension Board and is past president of the Security Traders Association of St. Louis.

New city administrator takes the helm

Mayor Richard Magee and the Glendale Board of Alderman appointed Jaysen Christensen as the new city administrator, effective Feb. 11, following a search and selection process that began last November. Christensen replaces Jeremy Hayes, who relocated his family to Bloomington, Ill., in January following his wife's job promotion and transfer.

Christensen came to Glendale from the City of Creve Coeur, where he had served as Assistant to the City Administrator for eight years. In that position, he oversaw personnel management, assisted in the preparation of the annual budget and capital improvement program, and performed a variety of other functions supporting the day-to-day operations and administration of Creve Coeur.

While in Creve Coeur, Christensen oversaw the establishment of one of the most popular dog parks in the region, helped Creve Coeur to become a regional leader in sustainability, improved the city's operational efficiency, and revised and enhanced the city's personnel policies and performance-based employee pay plan.

Christensen previously served as a management aide in the City of La Canada Flintridge in the Los Angeles area, where he assisted in capital improvement planning as well as solid waste and recycling management.

Christensen holds a bachelor's degree in American studies and a master's degree in public administration from Brigham Young University. He has been a member of the International City Managers Association for more than 10 years. Christensen lives in Ballwin with his wife, Heidi, and their two sons and two daughters.

City to participate in RainScape Rebates

The Glendale Board of Aldermen in January passed a resolution in support of the RainScape Rebates program, a voluntary program that makes $200,000 in funds available to give financial assistance to landowners wishing to RainScape their yards to improve stormwater management.

The Deer Creek Watershed Alliance is a project of the Missouri Botanical Garden.

RainScaping consists of a wide scope of sustainable landscaping choices that a landowner may employ voluntarily to improve storm water management.

Seventy-five percent of the funds will be reserved for residential landowners; the remaining 25 percent will be available for schools, churches, businesses and parks. The maximum rebate is $2,000 per site.

The Deer Creek Watershed Management Plan is a voluntary, educational guidance document designed to encourage better stormwater management practices in the Deer Creek Watershed.

All cities that have passed a supporting resolution by April 15 are eligible to participate in a second round of funding.

For more information and an application, visit our website at www.glendale-mo.org or <http://deercreekalliance.org/rainscaperebates.aspx>.

ON THE STREETS

Mosquito control tips

With spring and summer come the buzzing of mosquitoes. The City of Glendale has one of the most comprehensive mosquito control programs in all of St. Louis County. It is designed to target mosquitoes in all stages of their lifecycle from egg to adult by means of briquettes, trapping and fogging.

Briquettes are applied to all creeks and stormwater inlets throughout the community once a month to prevent mosquito eggs from developing into adults. This is the most effective means to prevent mosquitoes.

Fogging, which targets adult mosquitoes, follows. To be most effective, fogging is conducted during the night hours when mosquitoes are most active. Fogging begins at dusk every Thursday night from May through late September.

The Public Works Department is asking for citizens' help, in continuing the reduction of egg development. By clearing rainwater from common water-collection sites, such as empty pots, wheelbarrows or children's toys, the life of the mosquito can be greatly reduced. For more information about the Glendale's mosquito control program, please visit www.glendalemo.org.

Permanent hazardous waste facility now open

The area's first permanent household hazardous waste collection facility has opened at 291 E. Hoffmeister Road. For information, visit www.hhwstl.com.

Hearing on CDBG funds set for June 17

The City of Glendale will hold a public hearing to discuss the allocation of $20,000 in Community Development Block Grant funds, which will become available after January 1, 2014. The public hearing will be held at 6:30 p.m. June 17, at City Hall, 424 N. Sappington Road.

14th Annual JazzFest

The 14th annual Glendale JazzFest, St. Louis' oldest-running jazz festival, will be held on Memorial Day weekend from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday, May 24 in the lower City Hall parking lot.

The free concert will feature music by Billy Peek, the St. Louis Stompers and the Terry Thompson Swing Alive Band featuring vocalist Dean Christopher. Broadcaster and jazz aficionado Don Wolff, who hosts jazz music shows on live365.com and HEC-TV, will emcee the event.

"This will be Billy Peek's third appearance at the Glendale Jazz Festival," said Terry Thompson. "He's back because the fans love him. Billy will bring his unique brand of blues, Chuck Berry favorites and his very own Peek duck walk to the stage. With Billy Peek, you can be sure the house will rock to the top as he wows the audience."

The concert includes refreshments offered for sale by local restaurants.

JazzFest is presented by the Glendale Women's Club in association with the City of Glendale and is produced by Terry Thompson Productions. The event is underwritten by several local business sponsors.

Official No Solicitors stickers available

Visits from door-to-door salespeople, peddlers and other solicitors increase when the spring weather rolls around. Residents who don't wish to be disturbed by these visitors may obtain official "No Solicitors" stickers from City Hall.

Glendale City Code requires that solicitors, canvassers and peddlers have a permit from City Hall before knocking on doors in Glendale. When a prospective solicitor applies for permits, every person connected with that organization who would be visiting homes in Glendale undergoes a background check and is photographed by City staff. Each solicitor must wear a City-issued identification badge and abide by all applicable rules and regulations.

One of the most notable restrictions is that solicitations are strictly limited to

No More Trash

Members of Cub Scout Pack 360 from North Glendale Elementary School rest after picking up trash in Glendale as part of the Missouri Department of Conservation's No More Trash program. This year's event, held April 6, was Glendale's second year of participation in the program, which focuses on educating the public about the damages of litter. The boys spent about an hour walking a few Glendale streets. They netted four 32-gallon bags of trash ranging from petrified fast food items to iron pipes. Cigarette butts led the list of discarded items, followed closely by fast food bags and beverage containers, apparently thrown from cars, said Glendale Alderman Aaron Nauman, who is den leader for the pack's fourth-grade Webelos.
