School's history keeps expanding

While the City of Glendale celebrates its 100th anniversary, changes are under way at one of the city's historic buildings.

For the fourth time in the history of North Glendale Elementary School, the building at 765 N. Sappington Road is being expanded.

Opened in 1938 to relieve overcrowding at the Henry Hough School at the southern end of Glendale, the original building consisted of three classrooms, the principal's office and a gymnasium on the first floor. The second floor contained four classrooms and a nurse's station. Fewer than 100 students were divided into kindergarten through sixth grade classes.

In the late 1940s and early 1950s, the north and south wings, each with four classrooms, were added to the existing school and two classrooms were added in the basement.

In the mid-1960s, a south addition with four classrooms was constructed. At that time, the gym was rebuilt, the school office was relocated to the center of the building and the library was placed in its current second-floor location.

In 1982, Henry Hough School closed and North Glendale absorbed its students. Those additional students and the introduction of some full-day kindergarten classes in the mid-1980s necessitated another enlargement of the building. In 1988, a new north wing with three classrooms on three levels was added to the school.

The 2012 expansion is a 30,000-square-foot, three-story addition of a full-size gymnasium, cafeteria, five classrooms, art and music rooms, site safety features and traffic flow improvements. Kindergarten will return to North Glendale after more than 15 years at Tillman Elementary School. Glendale's school-age population has increased in recent years, creating the need for four classrooms per grade

Municipal election set for April 3

Glendale voters will choose on April 3 whether to re-elect one alderman and will elect new representatives in Wards II and III. Glendale Aldermen serve two-year terms.

In Ward I, incumbent Tom Schoemehl is running unopposed for his second term.

In Ward II, Aaron Nauman is running unopposed to replace Paul Roettger, who resigned in December when he moved to another ward within Glendale.

In Ward III, newcomers Scott Clark and Berry Rounds Lane are competing to replace Dan Sullivan, who is completing his second term and not running for re-election.

The polls open at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

MAYOR'S MESSAGE

Dear Residents:

Spring is a time of new beginnings, warmer weather and an optimistic outlook for the year ahead. One of the distinctive features of the Glendale community is being grounded in history and tradition but always striving for improvement and welcoming the opportunity for growth.

The impressive addition under way at North Glendale Elementary is a perfect example of respect for tradition and pursuit of growth. The major addition to the north side of the school is being done in a style that reflects the historic architecture of this community landmark. Among other improvements, the addition will provide space to bring kindergarten classrooms back to North Glendale and provide new gymnasium and cafeteria space.

This spring we bid farewell to two aldermen who have ably served the City of Glendale. One, Paul Roettger, has already stepped down when he moved out of Ward II. We are pleased Paul and his family are still in Glendale and know they will remain active in the community. Another seat on the Board will turn over this spring when Ward III Alderman Dan Sullivan ends his second term. We thank Dan for his two terms of service on the Board. Don't forget to vote in the April 3 election that will determine the successors for Paul and Dan.

I also want to thank a very special member of our Police Department who will retire this spring. After a remarkable 43-year tenure, Capt. Gary Woepke will retire May 1. I'm often impressed with Gary's knowledge of our community and his ability to solve the thorny problems that can arise in community policing. You may know that Captain Woepke lives here in Glendale, and that's part of what makes him such a fixture in Glendale. We wish Gary all the best in retirement.

Speaking of public safety, I'd like to call your attention to the "Burning Issues" section of this issue. This is a recurring feature of the newsletter where you can learn more about fire protection and emergency response in Glendale. This edition explains how our firefighters, all of whom are emergency medical technicians (EMTs) or paramedics, are prepared to respond at a moment's notice around the clock. One of the most gratifying aspects of holding elective office is hearing residents thank the City after a medical or fire call in which a life or home was saved.

Underlying the privilege of providing these critical emergency services is the responsibility of managing your taxpayer dollars. We take that management responsibility very seriously as we prepare an annual operating budget every year at this time. If you ever have questions about how your tax dollars are managed, don't hesitate to stop by City Hall. Our administrative staff is always eager to explain our transparent financial management procedures.

One way that local governments stretch our dollars is by innovative service-sharing arrangements. The Kirkwood Aquatic Center is a perfect example. The City of Glendale participates in the funding for the center, allowing our residents to enjoy this facility. Whether it's for the occasional family outing or a season-long aquatic program, make plans to enjoy the pool this summer.

Finally, it can't be spring in Glendale without the JazzFest. This will be a special "centennial" edition of the JazzFest as 2012 is the 100th anniversary of Glendale city government. In ways big and small, the City will continue to protect and serve this special community into our second century and beyond.

Have a safe and happy spring and thank you for being a part of Glendale.

Warmest regards,
Mayor Richard Magee

JazzFest set for May 25

The 13th annual Glendale JazzFest will be held on Memorial Day weekend from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday, May 25 in the City Hall lower parking lot.

The free concert will celebrate the City's centennial with music by Billy Peek, the Coronet Chop Suey Band and the Terry Thompson Swing Alive Band. Broadcaster and jazz aficionado Don Wolff will emcee the event, which will include refreshments offered for sale by local restaurants.

JazzFest was first held in 2000 to offer Glendale residents a community event for early summer. Attendance for the event has grown from about 200 the first year to more than 3,000 in recent years.

JazzFest is presented by the Glendale Women's Club in association with the City of Glendale and is produced by Terry Thompson Productions. The event is underwritten by local business sponsors.

Scholarships benefit Glendale area students

Two scholarship funds that benefit Glendale area college-bound students are accepting applications this spring.

The Glendale-Kirkwood Kiwanis Club is accepting applications for its annual college scholarships for high school seniors graduating in 2012.

Scholarship recipients must be applying for entrance to an accredited institution of higher learning, such as a community college or other college or university. Eligibility is based on service to community, extracurricular activities, honors, academic achievement and financial need. The amount of the award varies.

The application deadline is May 4. To obtain an application, students may call (314) 822-5802 or see their high school guidance department.

Money raised by the annual Glendale Firehouse Run supports the Kiwanis scholarship fund. The 2011 event raised $1,000 for the fund.

The Firehouse Run also supports the Kirkwood Area Perpetual Scholarships, offered by the KAPS Organization in conjunction with local Optimists Clubs. The 2011 run raised $500 for KAPS. Selection for the $1,000 awards is based on financial need, class rank, test scores and extracurricular activities.

Applications are available at high school guidance offices. The deadline is April 22.

Centennial logo items available for sale

The City of Glendale is celebrating its 100th birthday with limited-edition centennial merchandise.

Residents may purchase drink tumblers and polo shirts commemorating this community milestone. Later this year, T-shirts and other items will be available at JazzFest and other community events.

Black short-sleeve polo shirts for women and men are available for $25, and tumblers bearing the centennial logo sell for $10.

Photos are available on the city's website at www.glendalemo.org.

and a larger cafeteria. Currently art and music rooms are inaccessible to children with disabilities, but the new rooms will allow all children to participate.

The project is scheduled for completion in time for the start of school in August 2012. At that time, North Glendale's school population is anticipated to be 470 students from kindergarten through fifth grade.

Glendale School Memories

Some traditions enjoyed by long ago North Glendale students still continue today. Annual traditions such as the Fun Fair, Halloween Parade, the school dance, Fourth Grade Trip to Jefferson City, Christmas and Halloween Parties, vocal concerts, art shows, Field Day and the Talent Show continue, and new traditions such as the Turkey Trot race have been instituted.

Throughout its history, North Glendale has relied on parents and volunteers to help with the traditional events and to contribute to the high quality of the school. As the school approaches its 75th anniversary in

New Addition

Construction of an addition and full renovation of Glendale Chrysler Jeep is now under way at 10070 Manchester Road. The first phase of the project is construction of a 12,000-square-foot service building addition to the rear of the dealership. The next phase, scheduled for this summer, is renovation of the office area, showroom and existing service bays. The final phase involves demolishing portions of the front building and renovating the façade. The project is scheduled for completion by the end of 2012.

"The City of Glendale is pleased to see this significant reinvestment in a 'landmark' business," said City Administrator Jeremy Hayes.

Jogger/cyclist safety

Glendale has always been a wonderful place to live, work and raise a family. Its neighborhood style atmosphere brings out the exercise enthusiasts at all times of the year. The Glendale Police Department asks pedestrians and joggers to use the sidewalks when available and to wear reflective or light-colored clothing so motorists can better see them in the early morning, dusk and nighttime hours. Bicyclists also should wear reflective or light-colored clothing while riding throughout the City. We have had several close calls between motorists and joggers, walkers and bicyclists because the motorist didn't see them until it was almost too late.

Cyclists must obey traffic laws: State law states that all bicycle riders, when riding upon a street or highway, are granted all the rights and are subject to all traffic regulations applicable to drivers of motor vehicles, including obeying stop signs, yielding to pedestrians, signaling turns and so on.

Wear protective headgear: In April 2008, the City passed an ordinance requiring that all people, regardless of age, operating or being a passenger on a bicycle, using inline skates, roller skates, a skateboard or an electric personal assistive mobility device on a public roadway, public bicycle path or other public rights of way, shall wear protective headgear of good fit, fastened securely upon the head with the straps of the helmet. The definition of protective headgear by City Ordinance is "a piece of headgear which meets or exceeds the impact standard for protective bicycle helmets set by the U.S. Consumer Products Safety Commission federal safety standards, those developed by the American National Standards Institute, the Snell Memorial Foundation, or the American Society of Testing and Materials."

Home Improvement Scams

As spring is rapidly approaching, the Glendale Police Department would like to warn our residents of the potential for home improvement scams. There are many different home improvements scams and homeowners can be vulnerable if unaware of these gimmicks.

Homeowners should be suspicious of contractors who offer a "one-time deal" while they are just "passing through" or "doing work" in the neighborhood. Also beware of contractors who want payment upfront or to go buy supplies to complete the job. Reputable contractors should have adequate supplies to complete the work and want to ensure you are satisfied with their work before payment is required.

There are a few common schemes used by contractors or individuals trying to make a quick buck at your expense. Some of these schemes are described below:

Driveway sealants — The scam artist will use cheap materials to seal your driveway. The so-called sealant often will wash away after only a few rain storms.

Chimney repairs — The scam artist will offer to clean your chimney at a low cost but will "find" other costly repairs while completing the job. Often the repairs suggested are not needed.

Gutter cleaning — The scam artist will offer to clean your gutter of debris at a low cost but will find other costly "problems" that are often nonexistent. Or they will not clean your gutter at all.

Roof repairs — The scam artist will offer roof repairs that are not needed or will use substandard materials that could cause other problems to your roof.

Yard work — The scam artist will offer to complete yard work at a low cost and often does not complete the job or requires payment before the work is done.

Another way these predators can steal from you is to distract you at your front door or in your yard while an accomplice enters your home through a rear door or alternative access point of your home.

It is very important that you are aware of these scams and your surroundings when being confronted by individuals who want to steal from you or your family. Remember, not all contractors are scam artists that are trying to steal from you. If you ever question a contractor or company's reputation, contact the Better Business Bureau for their rating.

Door-to-door solicitors

Visits from door-to-door salespeople, peddlers and other solicitors increase when the spring weather rolls around. Residents who don't wish to be disturbed by these visitors may obtain official "No Solicitors" stickers from City Hall.

Glendale City Code requires that solicitors, canvassers and peddlers have a permit from City Hall before knocking on doors in Glendale. When a prospective solicitor applies for permits, every person connected with that organization who would be visiting homes in Glendale undergoes a background check and is photographed by City staff. Each solicitor must wear a City-issued identification badge and abide by all applicable rules and regulations.

One of the most notable restrictions is that solicitations are strictly limited to the hours between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. Solicitors must honor "No Solicitors" signs, whether the official City sticker is used or not. Solicitors also are not allowed to use or attempt to use any door or entrance to the home other than the front door or main entrance from the street or sidewalk.

Official "No Solicitors" stickers are available at City Hall during regular business hours. For questions or concerns, call City Hall or the Police Department.

The Glendale Fire Department maintains personnel at the firehouse 24 hours a day 365 days a year. The department accomplishes this by having three shifts of four personnel. Each of our shifts has a captain/emergency medical technician (EMT), lieutenant/paramedic or EMT, firefighter/paramedic and firefighter/EMT.

Along with the shift personnel, the Glendale Fire Department is commanded by Fire Chief Larry J. Zeitzmann and Assistant Chief/Training Officer Steve Siebert.

On Nov. 18, the Fire Department held its annual Appreciation Dinner to recognize individuals for various accomplishments throughout the year.

Jim Bockhorst, Matt Cash, Clint Fulliam, Matt Hawkins and Chad Wagner were given life-saving awards for their efforts during emergency medical incidents.

The Glendale Fire Department Phoenix Award for 2011 was presented to Lieutenant Curtis VanGaasbeek for his hard work and dedication toward the Disaster Response Trailer. The award is given annually to one person who performs above expectations, goes above what is expected and performs at an outstanding level throughout the year. Many firefighters assisted VanGaasbeek on this project, however he directed efforts and coordinated all activities to ensure that resources were placed in service in a timely manner at a very low cost to the City.

in the U.S. Army. He was promoted to sergeant in 1971, lieutenant in 1990 and captain/deputy chief in 2000. Along the way Woepke earned a bachelor's degree in legal justice from Maryville University and master's degree in public administration from Webster University. He is a graduate of the 183rd session of the FBI National Academy.

"During the past 40 years, Capt. Gary Woepke has distinguished himself in the law enforcement community as a highly dedicated leader committed to the highest ideals of professional law enforcement," said Mayor Rich Magee. Woepke has received accolades for his handling of traffic safety standards, code enforcement and community issues. He was recognized as Police Department Employee of the Year by the Kirkwood American Legion in 1977 and Glendale Employee of the Year in 1998.

Woepke lives with his wife, Beth, in Glendale, where they raised four children.

Outstanding Employee Award

City Administrator Jeremy Hayes recognized Officer Steve DeBisschop as the Outstanding Employee for the fall quarter 2011. At the end of each quarter, the department heads confer to select an employee for special recognition. The Police Department congratulates Officer DeBisschop on a job well done. On Nov. 7, Officer DeBisschop assisted the Warson Woods Police Department's search for a missing elderly man. DeBisschop located the individual in a creek bed and summoned paramedics to his aide.

Firehouse Run results

More than 400 runners participated in the 32nd Annual Firehouse Run on Oct. 30. The event went very smoothly, thanks to "Honorary Starter" Jen Myers from KYKY-98 Radio and the assistance of about 50 volunteers and City staff from all departments.

Checks have been issued to the three charitable organizations that benefit from the 2011 Firehouse Run: Backstoppers, $1,200; Glendale-Kirkwood Kiwanis Club scholarship fund, $1,000; and Kirkwood Area Perpetual Scholarships program, $500.

ON THE STREETS

Summer jobs

Looking for a way to get your college-age kid involved in your community and make some money? Each year during the summer months, the Public Works department hires two to three temporary employees to assist the department with its daily activities of tree trimming and removal, pothole repairs, street resurfacing, grass cutting and more.

Summer employees learn invaluable skills and develop a strong work ethic while helping to improve the community they live in. Hours are 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday with overtime possibilities. Interested parties may apply at City Hall. Applications will be accepted through May 4.

Growing green with recycling

Recycling. We all hear about it, but are we all doing our part to maximize what can be captured? Paper, cardboard and containers of all varieties (plastic, aluminum, steel and glass) all can be collected together at home through the City's recycling program. We want to show how "green" our community can be.

Over the past year, we diverted 31 percent of our landfill-bound material to recycling. That increased by 5 percent over the prior year. Typically a household may have up to 75 percent packaging waste that could be recycled, so even more can be done.

There are three simple reasons to recycle:

- Convenience: Now we don't have to sort the materials ourselves, NO removing lids, NO tearing off labels.

- Lowering costs: Conserving our resources by recycling keeps materials in the manufacturing process and keeps costs down, which affects our purchasing power.

- Jobs: Keeping materials out of the landfill provides jobs by putting people to work with processing and manufacturing new products from old ones.

Together as a community, we can progress toward a greener tomorrow. By simply pitching in and doing our part, the City of Glendale can easily exceed Missouri's 40 percent waste diversion goal. If you have questions about what can be recycled, please visit: <http://tinyurl.com/glendale-recycles>.

Tree management

The residents of Glendale are blessed to live in a community with so many majestic trees, but if left unattended, these trees can cause some serious damage. The City of Glendale's tree management plan not only incorporates the efforts of city staff but also works closely with utility companies to avoid dangerous and costly situations.

The Public Works Department is responsible for maintenance to all city-owned trees. These are the trees growing within the right of way, which is an area owned by the City on all public streets or an area designated for use by the City and/or various public utilities. It varies in width from 40 to 50 feet, depending on the street. The City's responsibilities include trimming, general upkeep and removal.

Complaints or concerns regarding city-owned trees are directed to the Public Works Department, which requests an inspection be performed by the City forester. The forester then gives recommendations and guidance for the proper course of action. These actions are then carried out by Public Works staff. The department also trims back all vegetation encroaching on or impeding the streets or street signs.

Often during a storm, city-owned and privately owned trees can fall into the street. It is the City's responsibility to open the street and haul away all debris from City-owned trees. Privately owned trees are placed into the yard to be disposed of by the property owner.

On July 1, 2008 the State of Missouri passed a law that mandates Ameren Missouri to trim back all vegetation within 10 to 15 feet of the main power lines. This work does not include vegetation around the house service lines, which is the responsibility of the property owner. In October 2010 Ameren began trimming in Glendale using these new guidelines. The city was split into three sections. This March and April, Ameren will complete the final stage of the project. Trimming activities will take place along parts of Cornelia, Edwin, Elm and Trevillian avenues; Austin and Oakway places; Hawbrook Road; Lockwood Boulevard; and Luther Lane. Ameren's standard practices include the removal and disposal of only the vegetation falling within the state guidelines. Ameren will begin the process again in late 2014.

If you encounter a tree or branch contacting a power line, do not attempt to remove it. Call Ameren (1-800-552-7583) or Glendale City Hall (314-965-3600) immediately. Avoid planting trees directly under electrical lines and be aware that the easement should be kept clear for utility company equipment. Notify the utility of any possible problems, such as tree growth coming too close to lines that may have been overlooked during a recent easement inspection. Utility companies readily answer any questions homeowners have concerning tree planting near easements and other electrical line safety issues.

Trees that grow along creeks are often thought to be the responsibility of Metropolitan St. Louis Sewer District. Actually, they are the responsibility of the property owner. MSD will assist only with fallen trees that are blocking or impeding the flow of water.

Pet tags still available

Glendale Pet Tags for 2012 are still available for purchase at Glendale City Hall.

Both dogs and cats are required by Glendale city ordinance to be registered and wear a City of Glendale pet tag.

The cost of a tag is $1 per pet. Pet tag applications may be obtained at City Hall or from the city's website at www.glendalemo.org. A summary of City ordinances related to dogs and cats also is available on the website.

Call City Hall at (314) 965-3600 for more information.

Outstanding employees recognized at appreciation luncheon

Glendale Mayor Richard Magee recognized several City of Glendale employees for their service in 2011.

The awards were presented at the City's annual employee appreciation luncheon, held Dec. 23 at City Hall.

Magee presented two Glendale police officers, Matt Mason and Chris Sarantakis, with the City's highest annual recognition, the Michael P. Pounds Employee of the Year Award. In presenting the award, Mayor Magee cited the bravery and quick thinking exhibited by Officers Mason and Sarantakis to rescue two residents from a house fire on Elm Avenue in May. He also referred to the positive attitude and professionalism exhibited by these officers.

Deputy City Clerk Bridget Tyrey received the Community Service Award for her leadership in the Gateway Hemophilia Association and her service as an officer in the U.S. Coast Guard Reserve. Magee also cited Tyrey's friendly and capable service in a wide variety of functions, including coordination of Glendale's special events such as JazzFest and the Fire-house Run.

Bridget Tyrey

Retiring Police Captain Gary Woepeke received the Special Service Award.

Woepeke served with distinction as acting police chief for several months following Chief Richard Black's retirement. Magee praised Captain Woepeke, who will retire in May after celebrating his 42nd year of service in March. Woepeke is the City's longest serving employee and is known for his renowned problem-solving skills and exceptional service to residents.

The December luncheon also is an opportunity to recognize employees who have achieved milestones. A 10-year service pin was presented to Assistant Fire Chief Steve Siebert, who joined the City of Glendale in June 2001.

Each year, Glendale's city administrator requests nominations for its annual employee awards, which are presented at the Employee Appreciation luncheon in late December. The luncheon is an opportunity for the mayor and Board of Aldermen to express their appreciation to all City employees for their outstanding efforts throughout the year.
